

Project | City hall in Maastricht

Maastricht is one of the oldest cities in the Netherlands. In 1659, the foundation for the city hall, "Stadhuis", was laid. The European Union's Maastricht Treaty was signed in the city hall in 1992 and allowed the city to gain worldwide recognition.

The city hall has been extensively renovated in order to create a modern and up-to-date environment while preserving the existing essence of the building. In the course of this, the offices and the large meeting room were also re-furnished.

A High-quality furnishings, a defined style, and modern design were required. The executive and meeting desks from the Star product line along with the Talk conference table by Renz fit perfectly into the design concept.

The contrast provided between old and new, historical and modern, creates a special ambience throughout the city hall of Maastricht.
